

Abstract of the Disclosure

A network-based portal comprises an access module allowing one or more users to access any one or more of a plurality of applications; and an invoicing module operable to maintain a record of usage that a user has made of at least one of the applications and generate an invoice amount based at least in part upon the recorded usage.